Q: How to catch an exception during View rendering in Django? I have an exception during View rendering. I tried handling the exception with `if isinstance(exception, exception_type):` but it didn't work. In the `exception.py` the following error is raised

---

```
NoReverseMatch at /NotFound/for/example/1/Reverse for 'example' with arguments '('',)'
not found. 0
pattern(s) tried: []

A: You could try setting up a mixin class and include that in all of your mixin classes: I.e. add this to your base.py from django.shortcuts

---

import render from django.template import Template, Context from django.utils.encoding import force_unicode class ExceptionMixin(object): def render(self, context, kwargs):
    try: return
        super(ExceptionMixin,
self).render(context, kwargs)
```

---

except Exception as e: return render(context, { 'e':
force_unicode(e), 'request':
context['request'], 'user':
context['user'], 'session
