In mouse brain neurons, the activation of protein kinase B (PKB/Akt) is mediated by phosphatidylinositol 3-kinase (PI3K). We have found here that class I PI3K, including PI3Kgamma, could phosphorylate GSK3beta but with a low efficiency. We further found that phosphatidylinositol 3,5-bisphosphate (PtdIns(3,5)P(2)) may be the best regulator for PI3Kgamma in the activation of GSK3beta. In addition, it was demonstrated that phosphatase and tensin homolog (PTEN) is a crucial factor for the efficient phosphorylation of GSK3beta by PI3Kgamma. We thus propose a mechanism for the activation of PKB/Akt by PI3Kgamma, in which PTEN, bound to PtdIns(3,5)P(2), plays a crucial role in the inactivation of GSK3beta.News Study shows PAAS operators benefit from improved staff motivation and enhanced service to consumers On September 20, 2018, Nexia IRIS announced that its global circulation and circulation management (CCM) solutions provider, Nexia IBC, along with the Wilson Worldwide Group, has conducted an independent study which confirms that Pay-As-You-Sell (PAAS) solutions, which allow consumers to pay electronically using their mobile devices, are motivating operators to enhance their staff motivation and service to consumers. The study was commissioned and conducted by global research agency Sanei Research with the objective to examine if the motivation levels and service delivery of staff across a range of PAAS operators are enhanced by the use of Nexia IBC's PAAS solutions. The study surveyed 38 operators in 16 countries and 120 staff (mid-level operators and executive staff in each country) which used Nexia IBC's total circulation solutions. In addition, a control group of operators, which did not use Nexia IBC's total circulation solutions, were also surveyed. The study showed that operators who used PAAS solutions were 2.6 times
